CPA board OKs sports field funding

By Gregory A. Scibelli Turley Publications Correspondent

The Community Preservation Act Committee has given its stamp of approval to help fund the improvements to the Agawam High School athletic facilities.

Last week, the CPA Committee met and received new information from its administrator, Jennifer Bonfiglio, regarding the parts of the project eligible for CPA funding.

Bonfiglio says the Track Exploratory Sub-Committee appointed by Mayor Richard Cohen has looked closely at the different parts of the project and identified areas where they would be eligible for funding without question.

"We had to look through this pretty extensively to make sure nothing is in question," said Bonfiglio. "When it came to the CPA funding, we did not want there to be any disputes with the law."

A few years ago, the state Legislature relaxed the CPA regulations to allow communities to use funding for existing park facilities. However, there are still restrictions, including using CPA funds for artificial turf and some vertical construction.

Bonfiglio determined costs for site preparation, the tennis and basketball courts, re-seeding of fields, and the movement of the varsity baseball field are all areas that qualify for CPA funding. The CPA Committee approved recommending the spending of $1,035,000 in CPA funds to the Agawam City Council. The town plans to bond the rest, up to $6.75 million.

CPA member Richard Maggi did question the amount being spent, saying he was concerned about using too much of the fund on one project.

Bonfiglio and CPA Committee Chairman Henry Kozloski both said the CPA can afford the expen-

Drug bust money 'very unlikely' to benefit town

By Gregory A. ScibelliTurley Publications Correspondent

The $1.1 million seized by the Agawam Police Department in a major drug bust on Friday, Oct. 17 may not be coming back to the town that made the discovery.

Agawam Police Chief Eric Gillis confirmed the investigation by his department is in the process of being transferred to the federal Drug Enforcement Agency.

The $1.1 million in cash, and the 118 pounds of high-quality marijuana with a street value estimated at $384,000, were recovered from a storage unit in town and will likely be held as evidence for a long period of time.

Gillis said even though Agawam discovered the money, it must go through a forfeiture process before it is decided where the money goes.

"I have never gone through this process before," said Gillis. "But given this is going to be a federal investigation, it is very unlikely the town will see any

Voters will have a lot of choices to make when they head to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 4. Races for governor, state senator, state representative and several other state and regional offices will be decided at the polls

The top elected office being contested is for governor of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. Democrat Martha Coakley, the current attorney general, and Republican Charlie Baker are facing off to succeed Gov. Deval Patrick, who chose not to seek re-election after two terms leading the state.

Coakley is seeking the top office in the state for the first time while Baker is making his second attempt. He lost to Patrick in 2010.

Apart from the two major-party tickets, three other pairs of candidates will appear on local ballots: Evan Falchuk and Angus Jennings for the United Independent Party, as well as independent Agawam Robotics Team FTC 90, also known as OMG, volunteered at the Power of Purple 5K Run, which took place Oct. 26 at the Agawam Industrial Park. The event was held to benefit the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life. The team was more than happy to shower runners and walkers with purple powder as they made their way along the course, as seen in the left photo with Joy Benoit, of Agawam. Afterward, right photo, the team proudly showed off their purple hands. They are, from left, Nathan Vining, Kyle Reed, Matt Flagg, Aidan Chan, Pranav Saravan and Ryan Smith. Team OMG consists of students from Agawam Junior High. In addition to building a robot for competitions, OMG's mission is to promote and spark the interest of science, math, engineering and technology in students of all ages.

'Coats For Kids' deadline Friday

The Springfield Salvation Army has extended the deadline for its "Coats for Kids" drive to Friday, Nov. 7. Coats of all sizes are needed — from infants to young adult sizes — and drop boxes are located throughout Agawam and neighboring towns, thanks to the generosity of local business owners.

Noteworthy campaign sponsors include Belmont Laundry, which has once again agreed clean every donated coat before distribution, along with fellow presenting sponsors Berkshire Bank, Fireside Designs, Market Mentors and media sponsors 94.7 WMAS, Sports Radio 1450 The Hall and CBS 3 Springfield.

The campaign will conclude on Friday, Nov. 7. The day for qualified families to register and receive coats is Saturday, Nov. 8.

Drop spots in Agawam include Ambiance Hair and Laser Cener, 200 Silver St.; Pride Convenience, 395 Main St. and 831 Suffield St.; and Berkshire Bank, 1359 Springfield St., Feeding Hills.

Additional drop spots in neighboring towns are listed at www.salvationarmycoatsforkids.com/drop-spots.php.

Free medical clinic at Bethany

A New Covenant Free Clinic is being co-sponsored by New Covenant Community Services and Bethany Assembly of God on Tuesday, Nov. 4, 6-8 p.m. The clinic will provide non-emergent care for people age 18 and over.

"The mission is to provide medical care in the Pioneer Valley community by the serving body, mind and spirit with compassionate Christ centered care," explained Dr. Kevin Snow, the clinic physician.

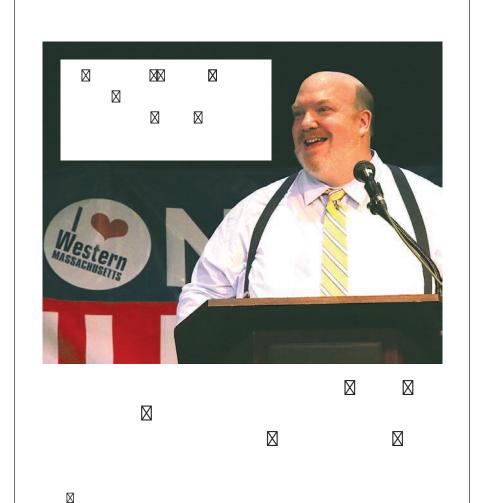

Although people are required to have insurance in Massachusetts, in the current economic condition some people cannot afford the co-payments to see their primary care physician for immediate non-emergency medical issues. The free clinic is intended to help these individuals receive the medical care they so desperately need.

The staff of licensed medical care workers volunteer their time and skills, and no revenue will be collected for the services provided. The entire team is committed to providing quality care on all levels. A visit to the clinic will include a demographic check-in, medical assessment, and spiritual encouragement. The free clinic operates once a month at Bethany Assembly of God, 580 Main St., Agawam. All medical records will be kept in strict confidence.

For more information, call the clinic at 413-363-0098 and leave a message. Your call will be returned.

School board stands against unfunded mandates

By Michael J. Ballway Turley Publications Staff Writer

In a series of seven votes on Oct. 28, the Agawam School Committee called for the state Department of Elementary and Secondary Education to change its attitude toward testing and reduce unfunded mandates on local school departments.

Board members said they were "thrilled" to be able to sign Agawam's name to a slate of resolutions authored by the Massachusetts Association of School Committees.

"I just want to say how happy I was reading the resolutions from MASC," said committee member Diane Juzba. "We talk about [unfunded mandates] every budget year. It is nice to see they're supporting us. It's nice to see that the Department of Ed. is finally starting to listen."

Among the resolutions adopted, in 7-0 votes, were calls to involve working educators in a reassessment of the state's standardized testing system, which includes the MCAS and PARCC tests; to refrain from adding further mandatory tests; to end the unfunded mandate requiring all teachers and school staff to be fingerprinted — or to have the state itself, rather than individual districts, run and pay for the fingerprinting operation; for "quality, universal pre-kindergarten access"; and in support of the federal legislative "earmarking" process.

One resolution, addressing charter schools, passed by a vote of 5-2. One of the committee members who voted against it, Anthony Bonavita, said he could not support it because the resolution did not take a consistent stand against the expansion of charter schools.

Budget could start early

Bonavita informed his colleagues that he may choose to start discussion on the school budget earlier than usual this year, to give the committee and administration more time to find creative ways to control costs. He said many of his constituents are worried about growth in the school budget.

"At rate we're going, in our lifetime we're going to have [a school budget of] $100 million," Bonavita said. "I'm starting to hear from taxpayers, how are we going to do it?"

Mayor Richard Cohen said it is difficult to plan ahead, since the town and school budgets depend, in a large part, on local aid from the state budget. It may be more difficult to predict than usual this year, Cohen added, as the state will have a new governor and some new faces in the state Legislature.

Town moving forward with revamp of Walnut Street Extension

By Gregory A. Scibelli

Turley Publications Correspondent

Last night, the Agawam Planning Department gave area businesses and property owners a look at some of the conceptual plans being considered for the Walnut Street Extension corridor.

Earlier this year, the City Council approved the establishment of a mixed use business zone for the area that would create flexibility in the types of businesses that could be inserted on the street. It also could potentially allow for residences to be located above some businesses.

Agawam Planning and Community Development Director Deborah Dachos worked with the Pioneer Valley Planning Commission under a District Local Technical Assistance grant for the second straight year.

"The first year, we received assistance from PVPC to put together a proposal for the mixed use zone," said Dachos. "This year, they have helped us come up with the conceptual maps and we hope to gain public input to choose one and revitalize the area."

A sub-committee appointed by Mayor Richard Cohen will be working with Dachos and PVPC to recommend a plan to the town's administra-

"We are hoping to combine the public's feedback with the work from PVPC and execute a plan that will go with the character of the neighborhood," said Dachos. "The opinion of the public, including the business owners, is very important to the conceptual plan we try to develop."

The town's technical assistance grant expires in December, and the subcommittee will be doing the work from there. The subcommittee includes Superintendent of Public Works Christopher Golba, Planning Board member Tricia O'Grady-Howard, Town Engineer Michelle Chase, Walnut Street property owner Larry White, and Council on Aging Director Joan Linnehan.

The conceptual plans presented at last night's public forum, which also served as the first formal meeting of the Walnut Street Extension Subcommittee meeting, were presented by PVPC Landscape Architect Dillon Sussman.

There were six maps presented, all with different approaches to beautifying the facades of buildings on the street, as well as creating walking spaces, additional parking, and "pocket parks," which are defined as small areas of grass that have park furniture. Dachos hopes the revamped look will also lead to outdoor dining areas.

"If we can revamp this area, it will become more attractive to businesses," said Dachos.

Dachos says the biggest problem identified by business owners is a lack of parking. She says any plan will include more parking, but not too much so the lots dominate storefronts. There would also be access for bicycles to the area.

Once a plan is agreed on, Dachos says the town would apply for a MassWorks grant of up to $1 million. If more funding is needed, Dachos said the town could look at other grant funding, town funds, or a phased approach.

One thing standing in the way is the ongoing issues with the Games and Lanes property.

Earlier this year, Scott Petlock of Ware said he was very interested in purchasing the Games and Lanes property, cleaning up the environmental issues that exist on the property, and restoring the building as a go-kart track and entertainment facility. It was believed by town administration that Petlock was near a purchase agreement, but that is not the case.

"There is no purchase and sales agreement in place," said Dachos. "The town has not heard anything and it does not look like a sale is imminent."

Dachos said the clean-up and re-purposing of Games and Lanes is vital to the re-vitalization plans.

"Even if we improve the storefronts and the parking, no one is going to want to open a business if the eyesore is still there," said Dachos.

Dachos says there are other options if Petlock does not buy the property, including investors interested in cleaning up the property and selling to a developer.

The most important election

T's become cliché, in national election years, to insist that this year's vote is "the _most important election of our lives."

Presidential elections are invariably painted as "the last chance" to save America from being further ruined by the loathsome incumbent — even if he's not on the ballot.

The narrative in midterms is, increasingly, the same: supporters of the party in power rally the troops around their embattled leader. Supporters of the opposition party insist that this is their only opportunity to derail a tone-deaf president's misguided legacy.

Which brings us to Tuesday's vote in Agawam, where the U.S. Senate race has attracted little notice and the U.S. representative race isn't even contested. Is this the most important election of our lives?

For Charlie Baker and Martha Coakley, it is. And Evan Falchuk, Scott Lively and Jeff McCormick. It's a pretty consequential election for Donald Humason and Patrick Leahy, Nicholas Boldyga and Samuel DiS-

And for you. While it's undeniable that Washington sets the tone for America — our choice of a president matters, the makeup of our Congress matters — the folks we send to Beacon Hill have more impact than most people realize on day-to-day life in Massachusetts.

Think of the government services you use every day — schools, roads and bridges, public safety, senior services. These are primarily provided and regulated by the state, or by local towns with (partial) funding from the state. The quality of these services waxes and wanes based on the priorities of those in power on Beacon Hill.

The governor isn't a lightning rod for criticism from coast to coast, doesn't get to fly around the world in Air Force One and doesn't live and work in America's most recognizable home. But the decisions he or she makes are no less important in your life.

Our state senator and state representative may not have as high a profile as their counterparts in Congress, but the bills they debate on Beacon Hill make just as much of a difference to your tax burden, your civil rights, your personal safety, your children's education and your business's future as the laws passed on Capitol Hill.

"The most important election of our lives"? Sometimes clichés get that way because they're true. What we choose in Agawam next Tuesday may not have much impact on the national political scene, but it's pretty important here.

More autumn questions for the Garden Lady

eatsy, who gardens in Hardwick, had this question for the Garden Lady: "My parsley looks great, and I'd hate to see it go to waste when winter comes! What can I do to preserve it?"

Lots of gardeners have been blessed with prolific parsley this season. Here are the ways it can be preserved for use all winter long. Unlike some other herbs, don't try to move parsley inside. Transplanting it into a pot is rarely successful because it has a long taproot which is almost always severed during the uprooting process. Another reason not to move it is that parsley is a biennial, and after a season in the ground will begin to make less foliage, directing its energy into making flowers instead. That means fewer leaves

Parsley can be used fresh, dried, or even frozen after a quick blanching. To air-dry parsley simply cut a half-dozen stems, secure them with a rubber band and dry in a dark, airy spot. The attic generally works great, but I have also used basements or spare rooms to dry herbs and flowers. If you are worried about dust getting on them, simply put the whole bunch inside brown "lunch" bags and suspend to dry. You can also freeze parsley for superior flavor. Plunge small bunches into boiling water until the leaves turn bright green. Then, remove them and place in an ice bath to halt the cooking. Allow foliage to dry on a towel before packing in freezer bags. You can also fill ice cube trays with chopped, blanched parsley and water. Freeze them, then pop the cubes out of their tray and place in freezer bags. Use a cube at a time in soups and such.

Nancy, who reads the column in The Holyoke Sun, wrote in with this gardening question: "I bought a new/old home last winter and spent this growing season seeing what was in the yard. There is a stand of rather over-grown irises and lilies others were just green stems. A friend took some and I cleaned up the area, cut down green growth and covered with a bit of cedar mulch. I have no idea what will happen next spring? Not even sure if this was correct. I have never grown irises before. Is there something I need to do other than what I've

You were prudent to give your landscape a year to show itself! Lots of new homeowners "dig in," and then regret that they accidentally planted over spring bulbs or late emerging perennials. Thanks for sending along a picture with your question. Looks to me as if what you have are Siberian Irises, a plant that can easily become overgrown and once it does, flowers become sparse. Dividing them as you did will surely help, and is best accomplished in August, so that they can root in time for winter. Generally rhizomes with two to four fans (sections of top growth) are planted a foot apart but just an inch or so deep in well-drained soil. Plants should receive full sun for the best blooms as well as supplemental watering during periods of drought. You were correct to mulch them. This will insulate and feed the soil.

help to conserve moisture and reduce weeds. Cutting them back to "fist height" as you did is ideal to keep the bed looking tidy for the winter months. Now, all you have to do is wait for flowers to come

Take & Eat on mission to feed the homebound

By Christopher Faille Turley Publications Correspondent

The Take & Eat program, begun 11 years ago, has a single simple mission: to feed the homebound on Sunday.

The program operates out of 40 sites in Western Massachusetts, of various affiliations, and delivered a total of 46,000 meals in 2013. It has already beaten that number in 2014 to date, delivering 47,000.

At one of the sites involved, St. John the Evangelist Church, a Roman Catholic church located on Main Street in Agawam, three weekends each month volunteers prepare between, at present, 60 and 70 meals. This includes the main (hot) course, as well as a salad and a dessert, and fills a gap in the weekend-oriented Meals-on-Wheels program.

A group of teenagers in the church is responsible for one of the three weeks in the Dave Picard — whose day job is director of human resources for Diana's Commonwealth Bakery — coordinates the program for St. John's Church.

In an interview, Picard observed that the meal, when delivered, is usually accompanied by a card, "like a greeting card, with a seasonal message, and with information about when the next meal will arrive."

Meals-on-Wheels provides information to Take & Eat about who in the area is in need of such a service.

There are no salaried employees of Take & Eat; everybody Picard coordinates, and Picard himself, is a volunteer. There are about 200 such volunteers involved in the Agawam program. Picard said their ages range "from 13 [confirmation classes] to 85." They make necessary purchases, such as of food ingredients, out of a budget of between $4,500 and $5,000.

It takes a lot of volunteer work to get the best bang out of those bucks, a range of tasks from shopping for ingredients to working in the kitchen to driving the meals out to the beneficiaries. Many different hot meals result from these efforts. Picard said that the organization has 70 recipes on file, and he mentioned fried chicken, chili con carne, and the inevitable offering for St. Patrick's Day weekend: corned beef and cabbage.

People looking to help out are always welcome.

Picard himself became the coordinator almost by accident, as he tells it. He went to an informational meeting, and emerged with a weightier role than he had imagined.

The program's name, Take & Eat, is derived from a verse in the gospel according to Matthew (26:26): "Take and eat, this is my body."

"One of the concerns brought forward was what if the town needs more funding beyond what the CPA gives them," said Bonfiglio. "The town knows this is all the CPA can afford to give toward the project. The town will have to find a different way to fund any

The Agawam City Council will be asked to formally approve the CPA funding at its Nov. 17 meeting.

Bonfiglio, who has done a lot of legwork researching the CPA funding for the Track Exploratory Committee, says an update will be given to the entire committee on Monday, Nov. 10, at 6 p.m. The meeting is open to the public and will be held at the Agawam Public Library.

"The project is starting to move forward," said Bonfiglio.

Cohen awarded the request for qualification tions to Milone and MacBroom, the design firm that made the conceptual plans of the project. The award was made on Oct. 10 and a formal design is expected early next year.

The mayor is hopeful the design will be ready in February so the project can go out to bid in March. The bid could be awarded in April and construction could then start.

From an athletic standpoint, the high school athletic teams will inevitably be affected. Depending on the timeline to install a new artificial turf multi-purpose field and all-weather track, some teams could be displaced for one full season.

"I am prepared for whatever I am asked to do," said Agawam High School Athletic Director David Stratton. "When I am given a date, I will start finding alternate sites for our teams. We do have more options for alternate sites for our spring teams. If the project goes into the fall, it will be a challenge for our fall teams, especially football."

The athletic facility project will include a new stadium with an artificial turf field used for football, soccer, field hockey, and lacrosse, a new all-weather track, stands, a press box, and concession stand. The tennis and outdoor basketball courts will be renovated and include better lighting. The varsity baseball field will be re-located to the rear of the high school and multi-purpose athletic fields will be installed in its place. The high school locker rooms will also be renovated and brought up to code.

SMITH, from page 1

The Historical Association was holding its final public event of the season. More than 75 people attended the candlelight evening, which included a tradition of making Stone Soup.

Historical Association President Marilyn Curry said the idea of inviting children to participate came from one of the members seeing it at a historic house in Niantic, Conn.

"People love to go to historic houses and tell ghost stories," said Curry. "We thought it was a great idea and Bill Sapelli, the school superintendent, agreed and opened it up to the students in the schools."

Judy Anderson, a member of the Historical Association, said she was really appreciative of the children who entered the contest. She says the children were asked to include the Smith House, which was built in 1757, in the story. The story had to end saying, "and they were never seen again. ..."

"A special thank you to all those students in grades three through six who entered our 'Scary Story' contest," said Anderson. "It was a difficult task to select one winner from each grade. We had some wonderful stories and great imaginations. We look forward to reading scary stories in 2015."

Drumm said she was very excited when she received the call from her teacher that she had won the contest for the fifth grade.

"I jumped up and down, I was so excited," said Drumm. "When I got here, though, I was really nervous to read my story. It was a lot of fun, though."

McAnanama said she entered because she enjoys writing and thought it would be a lot of fun to enter the contest.

"I ended up writing about a father and son who were vampires and how they reunited," said McAnanama.

Anne Liptak, a former Agawam teacher, helped the Historical Association evaluate the stories.

"This was a great way for the children to be involved in the Smith House," said Liptak. "We really enjoyed having them come to the house and share their stories."

dents Scott Lively and Shelly Saunders, and Jeff McCormick and Tracy Post.

Voters in Agawam will also be electing their legislative representatives on Tuesday. There are contested races for state representative, state senator and U.S. senator.

The race for state representative in the 3rd Hampden District will be a rematch from two years ago. Democrat Samuel DiSanti will challenge state Rep. Nicholas Boldyga, R-South-DiSanti sought Boldyga's seat in 2012 and was defeated. He is a retired postal worker.

Boldyga is seeking his third full term as a representative. He was elected in 2010, unseating Democrat Rosemary Sandlin. Boldyga represents Agawam, Southwick, Granville and Russell.

In the 11-community 2nd Hampden and Hampshire District, state Sen. Donald Humason, R-Westfield, is seeking his first full term. He is being challenged by Democrat Patrick Leahy, a police officer and resident of Holyoke.

Humason was a state representative for Westfield for 11 years. He then succeeded Michael Knapik in a special election last year, defeating Holyoke City Councilor David Bartley. Humason is now seeking a full two-year term.

Leahy is Humason's second Holyoke challenger for the senate seat. Leahy defeated Christopher Hopewell in a primary in September.

Incumbent U.S. Senator Edward Markey, D-Malden, will face Republican challenger Brian Herr of Hopkinton. Markey is seeking his first six-year term after being elected last year to fill the seat vacated by current U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry. Herr is a selectman who ran unsuccessfully for Congress two years ago.

U.S. Rep. Richard Neal, D-Springfield, is uncontested on local ballots.

Maura Healey, D-Boston, will face John Miller, R-Winchester, for attorney general.

Incumbent state Secretary of State William Galvin, D-Boston, faces challenges from David D'Arcangelo, R-Malden, and Green-Rainbow Party candidate Daniel Factor of Acton.

Deborah Goldberg, D-Brookline, James Heffernan, R-Wellesley, and Ian Jackson of Arlington, the Green-Rainbow candidate, are in a three-way race for state treasurer.

Incumbent state Auditor Suzanne Bump, D-Great Barrington, faces two opponents, Patricia St. Aubin, R-Norfolk, and Green-Rainbow candidate M.K. Merelice of Brookline.

Michael Albano, D-Longmeadow, the governor's councilor for the 8th District, is unopposed on Tuesday's ballot.

Anthony Gulluni, D-Springfield, is the only candidate for Hampden district attorney.

Gale Candaras, D-Wilbraham, and independent candidate Suzanne Seguin of Westfield are running for Hampden County register of probate.

Ballot questions

There are also four major ballot questions. They are all binding and could make significant economic differences.

Question 1 will ask voters to repeal the gas tax index to the rate of inflation. The state Legislature passed the indexing measure last year. It was fought by Republicans, who feel the Legislature should be voting on any tax increases. Advocates for gas tax indexing, who urge a "no" vote, believe it provides a predictable method to prepare for gas tax increases in the Question 2 is the expansion of the bottle bill. The bill would expand bottle deposits to more types of beverages. In Massachusetts, the bottle deposit applies to most sodas, beers and wines. Passing Question 2 would add the deposit to most non-alcoholic and non-carbonated beverage containers. The question would also allow the current five-cent deposit to be increased with inflation in future years.

Question 3 will ask voters to repeal the casino law that was passed by the state Legislature. Opponents of the casino brought their case to the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, which granted their request to place the question on the ballot. If voters say "yes," the casino projects proposed in Massachusetts would end and there will be no casino gambling in the state. A "no" vote would allow the current proposed casinos, including one in Springfield, to continue their course to fruition.

Question 4 will require businesses to begin providing some paid sick time to their employees. If passed, the question would allow workers to take needed time off in the event of an illness or illness to a family member.

Where to vote

of the money."

Gillis did share some knowledge of money collected from narcotics investigation.

"Normally, the protocol has been for money seized in narcotics investigations to be used for anti-drug campaigns or anti-drug education in communities," said Gillis. "It could also be used to help pay for future narcotics investigations."

Gillis said if Agawam did end up seeing any of the money, it could be put toward any of those purposes.

"We are not going to get that $1 million and be able to buy new cruisers or anything like that," said Gillis.

When Gillis spoke at last week's press conference, he said the initial investigation led detectives to believe the drug operation that was trafficking the marijuana found on Oct. 17 had "tentacles" in other parts of the country. That is the main reason Agawam is in the process of transferring the investigation to the DEA.

"Their agency has the resources to branch out the investigation to other parts of the country," said Gillis.

Currently, the U.S. attorney's office is conferring with the Hampden County district attorney's office to go through the transfer process.

"There will have to motions filed in court and other steps to transfer the case as well as move all the evidence to the DEA,"

The drugs and money seized in the investigation was on display at a press conference held Oct. 21 that included police officials from Agawam and Southwick, which assisted in the recovery of the drugs, and representatives from the DEA.

Gillis did not comment on other recent media reports about a suspect that evaded a police chase from the storage unit into Connecticut. He said the department does not comment on ongoing investigations.

The Westfield Police Department, where the report of the police chase originated, declined to comment on the case. Westfield Police referred all questions to Agawam Police.

$200K training grant benefits local business

National Training Associates, with the support of the West of the River Chamber of Commerce and Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce, was recently awarded $200,000 in grant funding to provide Western Massachusetts businesses with free access to Lean Training Programs.

Funding for this program comes from the Regional Training Capacity Pilot, which is funded by the Workforce Training Fund grant through the state's Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development. The grant program is administered by the Commonwealth Corporation.

This program awards funds to training providers who are then tasked with providing classroom services to businesses within an identified region. Director of Grant Services Tamara Fricke said they chose Western Massachusetts because "It's a diverse area with a large number of businesses that may not have the financial resources to sponsor training for themselves. In working with the Mass. Chamber and West of the River Chamber, we found the community support that was critical to having a grant of this type funded."

Fricke also recognized NTA's business partners, which include OMG of Agawam, Westside Finishing of Holyoke, Hayden Corp. of West Springfield and Springfield Spring of East Longmeadow.

Debra Boronski, president of the Massachusetts Chamber, said, "Helping businesses do more with the resources they have is fundamental to Lean methodology and a principle that we know will help Western Mass. businesses in times of austerity and prosperity. We are excited to partner with NTA as they prepare to offer Western Mass. businesses an exciting opportunity to refine their business and manufacturing skills."

"We are exceedingly happy that the Workforce Training Fund Review Board provided this innovative way to offer training services to businesses and are looking forward to starting our training programs after the first of the new year," says Joshua Britton, Director of Workforce Development for NTA.

Britton added, "NTA's partnerships with the Regional Employment Board of Hampden County, the Franklin Hampshire County Regional Employment Board and the Berkshire Workforce Investment Board were critical to the success of our application and we look forward to working with them to make sure businesses across the region have access to training."

For additional information about these programs, visit www.nationaltrainingassociates.com or call 413-789-3444.

Keene tallies in loss to Belchertown

By Tim Peterson Turley Publications Sports Correspondent

BELCHERTOWN - Even though the Agawam boys soccer team had already clinched a berth in the upcoming Western Mass. Division 1 Tournament, the Brownies needed a victory against the Belchertown Orioles in order to stay alive in the Churchill Division league title race.

The Orioles, who are the defending Churchill champions, remained in first place in the league standings and eliminated the Brownies from the league title hunt with a 2-1 victory on a sloppy field before a large home crowd, which included 10 youth teams from the Cold Spring Soccer Association, last Friday afternoon.

"One of our goals is to win the league title, but Belchertown is a very tough soccer team," said Brownies head coach Tom Smith. "I'm still very proud with the way my players played in this game today. They scored a goal 5:00 into the opening half, but we just kept battling back."

In order for the Brownies (9-7-1, 4-3-1) to win a piece of the league title, they needed to beat Belchertown (11-2-4, 4-0-3) and then have the Orioles defeat West Springfield

(10-2-5, 5-1-1) in their final regular season game on Tuesday night. If that would've happened, all three teams would've finished the regular season with a total of 11 points (two points for each victory and one point for a tie) and there would've been a three-way tie for first place.

After they missed qualifying for the postseason tournament by one point a year ago, the Brownies players are looking forward to playing in the Division 1 Tournament this fall. The Brownies haven't won the Western Mass Division 1 title since 1986.

The Brownies seniors are Brodie Keene, Cam Rivest, Nick Hanchette, Alex Sours, Stephen Mateus, Dalton Drummond, Kris Page, Phil Woods and Chris Basile.

Lady Brownies battle to tie

By Gregory A. Scibelli Turley Publications Sports Correspondent

HOLYOKE – It was not the best evening to hold Senior Night with the rain and wind from a coastal storm coming down at Roberts Sports Complex.

With their season on the line, the Holyoke girls soccer team did not score a goal and battled to a scoreless draw against visiting Agawam last Wednesday night.

In their current position, the Knights needed to win out their final four games on their schedule.

Players on both teams were very tentative to the ball under the slippery conditions. But both teams played through and tried to find creative ways to the goal.

Defenses on both teams did very well and both goalies also performed well.

Agawam began taking the majority of the possession as the first half went on. But Holyoke's speed on defense was a difference maker at several points. Gabrielle Chavez chased down a lot of loose kicks into Holyoke's end and was often able to outrun Agawam's forwards.

Chavez's speed made the same difference in a scoreless tie the week before against Chicopee Comp.

Later in the first half, Holyoke tried to clear the ball in the middle only for it to be intercepted by Sarah Carron. Carron was able to maneuver toward the goal. Chavez broke away from the pack and headed Carron off before she was able to take a shot on Holyoke's Callie Cavanaugh.

Agawam finally got their best chance to score with less than 10:00 remaining when they got a corner kick.

Cavanaugh swatted away the shot and Holyoke's defense cleared the ball away.

A short time later, Allie Wysocki got a shot from about 25 yards away, but Cavanaugh made the save.

With about a minute remaining in the first half, Holyoke got a scare when forward Zoe Moynihan got in a collision and was clutching her leg. She left the game, but returned in the second half. Holyoke is already missing two of their starters, Jamie Robert and Christine Rojas, to ACL injuries.

By Gregory A. Scibelli Turley Publications Sports Correspondent

AGAWAM – Agawam's place in the Western Massachusetts Division 4 Tournament could be secured with a victory this Friday night against Chicopee Comp.

It could also secure them the Suburban Conference title for the second straight year.

Last Friday night, the Brownies got another conference win as they downed Commerce, 33-20, at Berte Field at Central High School in Springfield.

Agawam was able to keep the ball moving on offense thanks to a great ground game, something they were showing off in their previous victory two weeks ago against South Hadley. Agawam is starting to develop a lot of depth at running back and four different players had positive yards on the ground against Commerce.

Agawam got on the board early in the game with run by Anthony Basile. Basile has spent a lot of time on both sides of the ball this season and took the handoff by Troy Gallerani and made it 54

Brownies narrowly miss trip to States

By Gregory A. Scibelli Turley Publications Sports Correspondent

AGAWAM – It was an unfortunate turn of events for the Agawam High School golf team and their top performer Matteo Godek at the conclusion of the Western Massachusetts Division I Golf Tournament held on Oct. 20 in Great Barrington.

Contrary to previous years, the Brownies, who placed third in the region, were left out of the state tournament as a team because the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association only took the top two teams. This year, Minnechaug was the team champion while Longmeadow placed second.

Adding to the confusion was Godek, who was the top scorer for Agawam a card of 76. That was good for ninth overall.

However, Agawam had reason to believe Westfield golfer Sebastian Soendergaard was ineligible

Rackliffe Named ECAC Division III New England Volleyball Player of the Week

FRAMINGHAM - Framingham State sophomore middle hitter Alycia Rackliffe, of Feeding Hills, has been named the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Division III New England Volleyball Player of the Week for the week of Oct. 20.

Rackliffe, who earned Massachusetts State Collegiate Athletic Conference (MAS-CAC) Player of the Week honors earlier this week, averaged 16.3 kills, two assists, 4.7

aces, 3.3 digs and 5.3 blocks in a 3-0 week that included a key pair of conference victories. Rackliffe amassed 23 kills with four blocks and three aces in a 3-1 victory over Worcester State and totaled eight kills, five digs and eight blocks in a 3-0 triumph over Bridgewater State. She closed the week with an 18 kill, seven aces, four assists and four block performance in a five set nonconference win over WPI. She averaged 4.08 kills and 1.33 blocks per set in the three matches with a .320 hitting percentage.

Rackliffe was also named to the MAS-CAC Women's Volleyball Weekly Honor

In the second half, Agawam continued to pressure the ball to Holyoke's end. Cavanaugh played even better in the second half, making all of her save chances.

Wysocki was a big factor for the Brownies, trying to find different angles to shoot on goal. She also made a couple of key free kicks.

Agawam nearly scored with about 8:00 left of the second half when header made it over Cavanaugh and bounced toward the goal. Cavanaugh swatted the ball away before it crossed the goal line to preserve the Cavanaugh finished with 11 saves. Becca Uschmann and Jenna Beach combined for four saves for Agawam.

While Holyoke was eliminated from postseason contention, Agawam managed to take the other way in. With a completed 2-2-4 league record, Agawam awaited Northampton and Longmeadow's matchup on Monday. With a Northampton win, Longmeadow ended up with a 3-3-2 record, giving Agawam and Longmeadow eight points each. The second place tie allows Agawam to enter the tournament, with seeds coming out Friday.

yards into the end zone. There were no flags thrown on this occasion and a point-after later, Agawam had a 7-0 lead.

Commerce got the touchdown back shortly after, but failed to get the extra point and trailed 7-6 after one quarter.

Agawam's offense broke out in the second to put the game nearly out of reach.

Gallerani completed two touchdown passes to Jason Carleton. The first was for 41 yards. The second, which came after a turnover, was a 37-yard pass. Basile also had a 1-yard run into the end zone.

At halftime, Agawam had a 26-13 lead.

Agawam's offense stayed on the field for a lot of the second half, but there was little scoring from both teams. Commerce managed a touchdown late in the third quarter to pull to within six points at 26-20. But Agawam scored in the fourth quarter with a Gio

Russo 6-yard run and a point-after to put the game out of reach with about f4:00 remaining in the game.

Gallerani went 2-for-4 passing, both of the completed passes going for touchdowns and totaling 78 yards.

On the ground, Basile had his best game of the season with 134 yards on the ground on 12 carries and two touchdowns. Russo had one touchdown and amassed 85 yards on eight carries. Dominic Grassetti had 39 yards on 10 carries.

Agawam is now 5-2 this season and 4-1 in the Conference. Comp is 4-3 heading into Friday's game with a 4-0 conference record. The two teams will clash at Comp at 7 p.m.

Dustin leads pack for Lady Brownies

By Gregory A. Scibelli Turley Publications Sports Correspondent

AGAWAM – It is the end of the regular season for the Agawam girls cross country team, and this year, Megan Dustin is leading the pack and ready to try and compete for an individual championship at Northfield Mountain on Nov. 8.

First, her and the Brownies will attempt to gain some ground at the Pioneer Valley Interscholastic Athletic Conference meet this Dustin will get her first chance to compete in a postseason race after missing the past few postseasons with injuries.

Dustin completed her regular season last week by picking up her fifth win of the sea-

She was the top runner against Holyoke on Oct. 21, coming with a time of 19 minutes, 50 seconds at her home course at Robinson State Park. It was not her best performance of the season, but it was much better than Maggie McAndrew, who placed second at the meet representing the Knights at 21:242.

Dustin has far and away outrun competition on several occasions, beating out some excellent teams with top runners. In addition to Holyoke, she scored first place wins against West Springfield, Belchertown, East Longmeadow, and even South Hadley, which has an excellent team.

Dustin has also set the course record at Robinson State Park this season, finishing at 19:43 against West Springfield early this season. Robinson is a very difficult course set mostly in the wood.

Agawam was able to edge out Holyoke on Oct. 21, capturing the fourth place, sixth place, and seventh place spots to get a 27-28 win. Haley Piotrowski was fourth at 23:44. Rosie Robidoux was sixth at 24:59.

The boys cross country team is also turning their attention toward the postseason meets as they finished up their regular season with a loss against Holyoke, one of the best programs now in the state.

Holyoke defeated Agawam 15-48. Only Cameron Czerpak managed a top 10 finish, coming sixth place with a time of 18:59.

Agawam's only win of the season came on Oct. 14 when they managed a win over South Hadley on the road. Czerpak finished second in that race at 20:19. Mario Tedeschi had a third place finish at 21:16.

The duo will hope to lead Agawam to a good performance this Saturday at the PVI-AC meet at Stanley Park in Westfield.

Agawam will competing against teams from all over Western Massachusetts, regardless of school size.

Bobby Johnston, Ryan Feyer, and Dennis Beaver are also hoping to make an impact in Westfield before the team moves on to Northfield.

be facing during the postseason tournament this year is Ludlow, who was forced to forfeit seven wins and two ties in the middle of the season after using an ineligible player. The MIAA Board of Directors voted down Ludlow's appeal 13-5 last week.

"It's very disappointing not having Ludlow as one of the teams competing in the tournament this year," Smith said. "Ludlow has been the benchmark all of my life and they'll always be the benchmark in Western Mass. I feel bad for their players and coach (Greg) Kolodziey. They're learning a lesson that didn't need to be taught."

Since Agawam, who tied Belchertown, 0-0, earlier in the season, has already been eliminated from the league title hunt, the winner of Tuesday night's match between West Side and Belchertown would be crowned the league cham-

"The winner of Tuesday's game will win the league title, so it's going to be a very important game for both teams," said Belchertown head coach Tony Almeida. "This is our second year playing in this league, which is made up of mostly Division 1 teams, and it would be a very nice accomplishment if we're able to win the league title two years in a row."

The Orioles are also hoping to repeat as Division 3 Western Mass. champions and state champions this fall.

"We've had an up and down regular season. We've played well in some games and not so well in some others," Almeida added. "Hopefully, we can put it all together during the postseason tournament. I think it's going to be a very tough battle for us in the Division 3 Tournament this year."

The eight Orioles seniors, who were scheduled to be honored on Tuesday night before playing in their final regular season home game against the Terriers, are Oliver Hopkins, Nick Drost, Billy Aldrich, Chris Noga, Ryan Stinson, Kyle Gadoury, Allen Gariepy and Jonathan Abood.

"All of the seniors are great kids and they're also very respectful," Almeida said. "That's what makes coaching the boys soccer team here in Belchertown such a thrill for me. It's always sad to see your seniors go, but they're looking forward to playing in the tournament for the final time."

Belchertown took a 1-0 lead during the fifth minute when Noga, who was credited with his fifth assist of the season, sent a crossing pass from the left side of the box over to Drost, who banged it into the right corner past Sours (11 saves). It was Drost's ninth goal of the year and 24th of his varsity career.

The Brownies did have a couple of very good chances to tie the score during the final 35:00 of the opening half.

In the 27th minute, a free kick from about 25 yards out by junior Anthony Sciartelli was cleared away inside the box by a Belchertown defender.

Agawam goalie Alex Sours clears the ball with a big boot.

With about 7:00 left in the half, it looked like Keene had scored the game-tying goal, but it was disallowed because he was offsides on the play.

Five minutes into the second half, the Orioles took a 2-0 lead on a corner kick.

The kick taken from the right corner by junior Jonathan Ingram was headed into the right corner of the goal by his classmate Noah Lussier, who has also scored nine goals this season and 26 for his varsity career.

The Orioles didn't keep the 2-0 lead for very long, as Keene sliced the deficit in half 2:00 later by firing a shot into the right corner past Belchertown junior goalkeeper Connor Curtain (seven saves), which was assisted by sophomore

It was Keene's team-leading 17th of the season and the 30th goal of his varsity career.

"Brodie is a very dangerous player up top for us," Smith said. "The field was slick, which gave him a lot of trouble

While the Orioles controlled the momentum during the final 30:00 of the contest, it remained a one-goal lead the rest of the way.

to compete at the Western Mass. Tournament. Agawam High School Athletics Director David Stratton said he filed an appeal with the MIAA on Godek's behalf. "What I understand was that the Westfield golfer was disqualified from a match," said Stratton. "Usually when a player is disqualified from a game, they are required to serve a one-game suspension."

Stratton said the argument was made that Soendergaard actually served his suspension.

"I have not had a player be disqualified from a golf match before," said Stratton. "But I have heard what happens a lot with golf is the player who is disqualified from the match then has his score disqualified from the game that he participates in. That, in effect, serves as the suspension."

Stratton said he was unsure whether or not the suspension had been served and filed the appeal. It was turned down by the MIAA and Soendergaard's score was allowed at the Western Mass. match. Godek, who placed ninth and would have qualified for states if he was elevated to eighth place, finished just one stroke off the pace to qualify.

"It stinks for Matteo because he did really well as did the entire team," said Stratton. "He took it really well, though. His attitude was that he was just going to work that much harder to qualify next season."

Godek is a sophomore and will likely have two more opportunities to be able to take part in the Western Mass. and state meets if he can qualify.

Godek had a progressively good season and had his best match near the end of the season when he carded a 34 against Belchertown, one-under-par. He scored a 76 at Western Mass. at a course he had never competed at.

A LOOK BACK

Submitted photos

Among those to visit the Agawam Historical and Firehouse Museum recently were, left, Reidar Nordal and his wife, Geraldine Schilling-Nordal, of Agawam. While at the museum, they discovered a postcard of the former Riverside Dance Pavillion where her father, Robert Schilling, performed with his "Hollywood Orchestra" in the 1920s. Also visiting the museum was Boy Scout Troop 185, right, sponsored by the Agawam Baptist Church.
